ABOUT

At 18, I'm a freelance software and web developer with experience in Java, C#, JavaScript, PHP, database development, and game plugin/scripting. My long-standing passion for software development has led me to work across various programming languages and technologies, allowing me to develop a range of projects over the years. Throughout this journey, I've continuously expanded my knowledge and skills, with the goal of establishing myself in the industry. By staying up-to-date with the latest advancements in technology, I strive to create innovative, solution-focused projects and continue pushing the boundaries of what I can achieve.
